

Winter 2018

Questioning Career: Designing the Life You Want

For Grad Students and Postdoctoral Scholars

January 24 - February 21 (5 sessions weekly)
Wednesdays, 10:30am - 12pm
Student Center: Dolores Huerta room

Facilitators: Christina Lambert, PhD
Pooja Amatya, PsyD

How can I create a life I want?

This unique, five-session workshop series helps graduate students and postdoctoral scholars find answers to this and other similar questions as we work through the often difficult processes of choosing a career path and creating a meaningful professional life.

Over 700 past participants have felt empowered to:

- ↪ Pursue career choices that correspond with their life priorities and personal values
- ↪ Identify their transferable skills developed through their academic experiences
- ↪ Take control of their career decision making process

REGISTER TODAY at <https://qcgwinter2018.eventbrite.com>

This is the only time the series will be offered in 2018. Register by Monday, January 22nd!

Registration fee: $15. This fee covers the assessments provided.

Questions? Please contact gradvantage@ucsd.edu.

